Indigenous Financial Counselling Mentorship Program Scholarships Information

The Indigenous Financial Counselling Mentorship Program Scholarships are sponsored by the Commonwealth Bank of Australia and are available to assist students who are currently working in the financial capability and wellbeing area within the Financial Counselling Sector to successfully undertake the Diploma of Financial Counselling.

The IFCMP and scholarships are co-ordinated and managed by the Indigenous Consumer Assistance Network' Registered Training Organisation (RTO) ICAN Learn.

The CBA IFCMP Scholarships are for the full course fees for the Diploma and has limited places.

About the Scholarships

- The CBA Indigenous Financial Counselling Mentorship Program Scholarships delivered by ICAN Learn are for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people working full time in financial capability and wellbeing positions with the financial counselling sector.
- The scholarship is not bound by age limits or qualifications.
- Scholarship funds are intended for the payment of course fees for the 2017/2018 Mentorship Program Diploma costs.
- Scholarship funds are paid directly to the Registered Training Organisation.
- The Diploma of Financial Counselling is a nationally recognised qualification and ICAN Learn meets the required standards for scope of delivering this course.
- The Diploma is delivered via online and face to face training. There are a total of 6 residential block training programs in Cairns during the course of the program.
- A condition of the scholarship is for your organisation to ensure that you are resourced to successfully participate in the online and face to face training sessions. This includes access to the internet and email, a headset with microphone and dedicated time for you to be released from your work duties to participate in the online and face to face training.
- The training is a nationally recognised and accredited qualification which makes Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander participants eligible for Abstudy away from base funding for travel, accommodation and meals for the face to face training session in Cairns.
- A requirement for eligibility for the Abstudy away from base funding is that participants will have to lodge an Abstudy claim as soon as notification of success for a Scholarship is received. Please note the Abstudy claim is not for a living allowance and will not be income tested – the application is for eligibility for the Away from Base Activity participation.
- Successful IFCMP Scholarship applicants will be provided with an information package providing details and information about the IFCMP, course enrolment and training schedule.

CBA Indigenous Financial Counselling Mentorship Program Scholarships

Why do you want to study the Diploma of Financial Counselling?

Please include in your responses:

- Reasons for undertaking the proposed course of study
- What interests you in Financial Counselling
- How you see your potential to contribute and fully participate in both the online and residential block training.
- How the scholarship would benefit in your professional and personal development in your current role in the workplace.

1. Commitment to Financial Counselling and delivering a quality service to disadvantaged Indigenous clients

Please demonstrate your interest and current and future commitment to leading, supporting and contributing to your organisation's delivery of financial counselling to Indigenous clients.

2. A willingness and intention to enrol in, undertake and complete the Diploma of Financial Counselling within the specified time frames.

Please demonstrate your motivation and commitment to furthering your skills and education in financial counselling for Indigenous clients.

3. Academic and Workplace achievement

- a) List (including years awarded) of any academic achievements through a tertiary institution along with professional development courses undertaken in any of your workplaces.
- b) Details (including years involved) of any leadership positions or roles currently or previously held in your workplace or community or provide examples of your leadership potential.
- c) Please indicate how long you have been in full time employment by a not for profit organisation delivering financial capability and wellbeing and /or financial counselling services to Indigenous clients and/or in Indigenous communities and your role. (Part time employment will be considered on an individual basis).

4. Workplace support to undertake the IFCMP
